

Kevin Koenig

Chief Technology Officer

Kevin has over 25 years of experience in software engineering, business development, and product management across global software product organizations. At Aurigo, he plays a key role in shaping the company's new product-pod structure, strengthening collaboration between product engineering and product management to accelerate delivery and advance Aurigo's AI-driven roadmap. Before Aurigo, Kevin held senior executive positions at Sasken Communications Technologies, Lucent, and Ascend Communications. He participated in his first startup when he joined Stony Brook Software in 1992. Kevin is an alumnus of the State University of New York, Oswego.